

CANNON WINS FIRST ROUND

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THE Arkansas Fact Finding Tribunal extending an invitation to four neighboring states to make a joint investigation of telephone rates is told that Oklahoma will gladly join hands with Arkansas but no final action can be obtained without passage of a federal communications bill.

High School Ready for "Stunt Night" Events on Friday

Stunts Must Be Registered by 9 o'clock Friday Morning

REHEARSALS FRIDAY

15 Local Organizations Have Already Entered Special Acts

The High School Glee Club and Orchestra are being organized to care for the large crowd usually attending the annual Stunt Night, Friday night at the High School auditorium.

Hosts and hostesses will greet the onlookers at the door and will be glad to help organizations in assembling materials for their stunts. This committee includes: Glen Durham, Hendrix Springs, Paul Jones, Dennis Richards, Floyd Mac Wisner, Ivy Smith and Yvette McKemie. Other committees are: Business Manager, J. W. Harper.

Ticket committee: Beatrice Gordon, Helen Hollamon, Wanda Keith, Pauline M. Jones, Wilma Kent.

Ushers: Mary Agnes Redwine, Frances Snyder, Helen Bernier, Lillian Huston, Annabelle Bowden, Marion Smith.

Stage Committee: A. D. Middlebrooks, manager, James Butler, Clark Reynolds, Billy Greene, Gordon Dayless.

Property Man—Garrett Story.

Decorations committee: Herman Valentine, Kathryn Middlebrooks, Peyton Kolb, Carline Bruner, Regina Bayse, Ruff Coffman.

Organizations wishing to enter stunts in the Stunt Night program must have these stunts registered with J. W. Harper, business manager, by 9 o'clock Friday morning. A rehearsal schedule will be used Friday and leaders of stunts should call Mrs. John Wellborn for an hour to use the high school auditorium. Leaders are requested to bring all stage properties to the high school after 3:30 Friday afternoon. A responsible property man will see that this material is properly placed on the stage.

Oratorio Elijah to Be Given Sunday

Feature of Music Week at First Baptist Church

In celebration of National Music week May 6 the choir of First Baptist church at the Sunday evening service will render excerpts from the oratorio, Elijah, by Mendelssohn.

This oratorio, composed in 1846, is second to none and is indeed worthy to be ranked with Handel's masterpiece, the Messiah.

The music is difficult but it appeals to the deepest and most widely cherished human interests. It abounds in many beautiful choruses, recitatives and solos.

The following numbers will be given:

Introduction—"As God the Lord, Overture—Piano. Chorus—"If with all your hearts." Recitative—"Elijah, get thee hence." Recitative—"Now Cherith's Brook." Soprano Solo—"What have I to do with thee." Alto Solo—"We do unto them that forsake Him."

Second Part: Soprano Solo—"Hear ye, Israel." Trio—"Lift thine eyes." Alto Solo—"O rest in the Lord." Solists: Mrs. P. L. Padgett, Mrs. H. D. Mayer, Claude Taylor, Choir director: Mrs. J. C. Carlton.

Charges Betrayal in Speech Against Farm Secretary

Radical Holiday Association Leader Blasters Wallace's Policies

RAPS BRAIN TRUST

Meanwhile, Wallace Moves to Prevent Further Tenant Evictions

DES MOINES, Iowa — (AP)—Milo Reno, president of the National Farm Holiday association, charged Thursday that the administration has betrayed the farmers and termed Secretary Wallace "the worst enemy the farmer has ever had in official position."

"No business of the nation has suffered so severely under the present administration as agriculture, nor has been so ruthlessly and criminally betrayed," he said in addressing the national convention of the Holiday association.

He charged Wallace with being "in perfect harmony with that group of political sycophants or half-baked Brain Trusters that have used every effort to destroy self-respect and self-reliance on the farm."

The five states involved are Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas.

"What we need is a federal agency, with real authority to command that state operations be produced at rate hearings," Walker said.

Walker appeared in Washington recently before a congressional committee to endorse President Roosevelt's proposal for a communications commission. The Oklahoma commission has been investigating Southwestern Bell toll rates since July 1, 1931.

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—Texas cannot join Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma in a proposed investigation of rates of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, Lon A. Smith, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, said Wednesday. Smith said the Railroad Commission did not have jurisdiction over telephone utilities, which are subject only to local regulation in Texas.

Some Complaints Made

However, he added, a sufficient number of complaints of eviction and misapplication of benefit payments by landowners has been received to make it necessary for the administration to investigate and correct any abuses.

"The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is not attempting to interfere with the usual and normal rental arrangements between landowners and tenants," Wallace said. "However, the administration has a definite duty with reference to the obligations imposed" to see that all parties concerned are protected.

Similar investigations of compliance under contracts for other commodities are contemplated, he added.

Complaints Received

Wallace made public a criticism of the cotton program by Calvin B. Hoover, professor of economics at Duke University, who acted as an economic adviser to the administration in making his study.

Hoover reviewed the Southern agricultural system and declared the acreage reduction program has not been responsible for "all undesirable conditions" found but various undesirable effects and instances of hardship to individuals have occurred in connection with the cotton acreage reduction program.

To the extent that cotton production is carried on by tenant farmers the "possibility of conflict of interest" arises and out of this potential conflict of interest "the most serious human problems connected with acreage reduction emanate," Hoover said. The system of "furnishing" tenants with food, clothing, and farm supplies has been a severe drain on the financial resources of land owners and was responsible for throwing large numbers of tenant farmers out of employment.

He added the accumulation of indebtedness of share croppers to land owners during the depression "created serious difficulties" when many landowners took tenants' benefits in payment for indebtedness.

"In a number of cases, share tenants and share croppers were not credited with any part of the so-called option payments of the 1933 contract," and often "whether the tenant received anything at all often depended upon the charity of the landowner," Hoover asserted.

Oklahoma to Join Telephone Probe

But Advises Arkansas That Federal Legislation Is Needed

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—(AP)—Chairman Paul A. Walker of the Oklahoma Corporation Commission Wednesday endorsed a proposal by P. A. Lesley, chairman of the Fact Finding Tribunal of the Arkansas Corporation, for a five-state investigation of rates charged by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

"I'm for it," he said. "I want to see the federal communications bill passed first, though, so that there will be some authority to go into this interstate business. Five states acting together won't have any more authority than one state."

The five states involved are Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas.

Plans for Local Motorcade Made at Highway Meet

Broadway Club Here to Send Delegation to Dallas May 8

TO JOIN TOURISTS

Plans Are Formulated at Capital Hotel Luncheon Thursday

At a luncheon meeting of Hope business men held Thursday noon at the New Capital hotel, plans were made to send a delegation of Hope representatives to the Broadway of America convention, to be held at Dallas, Texas, May 8.

A committee will canvass the town Friday morning to obtain automobiles and secure pledges of business men to make the trip, joining a motorcade from Tennessee which is to arrive in Hope Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The motorcade will stop here 30 minutes before heading westward to Dallas. Anyone wishing to make the trip or who would furnish an automobile are asked to get in touch with Terrell Cornelius, an Arkansas director of the Broadway association.

The Thursday noon luncheon, given free to the business men by the Capital Hotel management, was also attended by R. A. Jones of Hot Springs, vice-president of the Broadway association, E. L. Howlett of Hot Springs, an Arkansas director, attended.

Mr. Jones presided over the meeting, telling of the benefits to towns and cities derived from tourist traffic along the Broadway route from New York to San Diego, Cal.

The greatest difficulty in bringing traffic through Arkansas from other states, Mr. Jones pointed out, is the shortage of finances to supply adequate publicity and advertising campaigns for the highway association.

He said a greater supply of road maps should be printed and distributed to motorists. He encouraged strengthening of the local Broadway unit, and urged business men to support and co-operate in organizing Hope Broadway club, membership of which would be set at $1 per year.

Dillinger Hunt Is Moved to Chicago

Blood-Stained Sedan Abandoned There by Bandits

CHICAGO.—(AP)—The government's ace man-hunters and police marksmen massed forces in the Chicago area Thursday in a new drive to get John Dillinger, dead or alive.

The discovery of a blood-stained automobile spurred this concentration of officers.

The automobile was found Wednesday abandoned on a street on Chicago's North Side. It had been stolen in St. Paul, Minn.

In the front seat police found several packets of matches bearing the name of Emil Wanauck, proprietor of the Little Bohemia resort near Mercer, where the outlaws escaped the government's trap.

Two empty .45 caliber shells were found on the floor in the front of the car. The rear window had been broken out, apparently to give the gangsters free play for their machine guns and shotguns in event of pursuit.

An Indian blanket also was found in front.

On the front seat, police found a copy of the "Telegraph Herald," a Dubuque newspaper, dated April 23. A headline on the front page read: "Dillinger on another rampage."

Huge Tax Bill Is Sent to President

House Upholds Stock Bill—Business Protests "More Tinkering"

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The senate Thursday completed congressional action on the 417-million-dollar tax bill by eliminating the 10 per cent emergency super-income-tax for next year proposed by Senator Couzens, Michigan Republican.

The measure was sent to the White House.

MARGIN RELIEF REJECTED

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The house Thursday defeated overwhelmingly a proposal to reduce from 45 to 40 per cent the margin requirement in the stock market control bill.

VOICE OF BUSINESS

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States heard a call Thursday requesting President Roosevelt to cease experimenting and asking congress to stop enacting "hysterical legislation."

Silas Strawn, former chamber president and leader of its conservative wing, asserted in an address that business men now wanted "more definite promises in order to plan their future conduct."

He called for:

1. Balancing the governmental budget.
2. A definite announcement that there will be no more requests for emergency legislation.
3. No more tinkering with the dollar and revision of the securities act.

Is Nominated for College of Bishops by Vote 269 to 170

Stormy Debate Shakes Methodist Conference at Jackson, Miss.

RAP PRESS, ROMANS

Cannon's Advocates Denounce "Wet Press" and the "Catholics"

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., won a preliminary fight for continuance in office as bishop when a test vote in the quadrennial general conference Thursday ordered his name added to the list of bishops recommended for effective reassignment.

The vote was 269 for reassignment, and 170 against.

Cannon's face was wreathed in smiles over the decision to retain him as an active member of the College of Bishops. But he made no statement.

A stormy debate preceded the vote, with supporters charging that Cannon was being crucified and the church was "surrendering to the wet press and the Roman Catholics" if Cannon should be retired.

Opponents urged his retirement "for the good of the church."

Battle Lines Drawn

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—Foundations for mighty conflicts were laid Wednesday in the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, as the conference set up its new judicial council to pass on the constitutionality of church law and ordered balloting on momentous questions affecting the 11 active members of the College of Bishops.

Under the special orders of business, the hundreds of delegates will vote Thursday on the question of limiting the tenure in office of the bishops who were elected at the 1928 conference, and on a proposal to place on the retirement list any bishop who is found to be "so unacceptable, inefficient, or secular as to be no longer useful in his work."

The committee on episcopacy, of which Dr. J. W. Perry, of Chattanooga is chairman, recommended that the retirement age of 72 years, now in force, remain in the discipline book for retirement of a bishop earlier, for inacceptability or inefficiency.

If the latter proposal passes and is ruled binding without having to be submitted to the annual conferences for ratification or rejection, it was predicted by delegates favoring the retirement of Bishop James Cannon Jr., Richmond, Va., that it would furnish a new rule under which the Cannon case could be brought to the floor.

The committee expected this week to report to the conference, and recommendation that the 69-year-old Bishop Cannon be retired. It is understood their decision was based on the present disciplinary provision governing retirement for "infirmities."

If the new retirement proposal is passed the Judicial Council will likely be called upon to decide whether it has to be submitted to the annual conferences for ratification.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Parents Must Have Faith in Serums.

There is a matter being discussed by health authorities today that I believe is important to all of us. This is how to gain the confidence of parents in preventive therapy.

It has long been a problem and still remains one. Many parents object to serums and vaccinations and resent any law that makes them compulsory.

Everyone has a right to be a conscientious objector in this war against disease. I have, a times, had my own misgivings when something happened and a child had to be "pumped full of that stuff"—"stuff" I was suspicious of and to whose door I was inclined to lay all manner of evil. I understand the doubts of other parents who have to see a strange concoction being injected into an arm or a leg just because Johnny might get diphtheria or something when there isn't a chance in a million, as they think.

In Case of Diphtheria But let us try to look at it from a different point of view for the moment. I am not representing any chemical company or spreading laboratory propaganda. My conclusions are my own and no one needs to agree with me. It is merely that I see things more clearly today.

There are three ways of treating diphtheria, for instance, now that we are speaking of it. One is to let the child alone, once he contracts it, and trust that God won't let him choke to death or stop his heart. The poison attacks the heart as well as the throat. The second is to allow the doctor to give him hypodermics of antitoxin (to which no sane person objects, which may save him and probably will. However, even antitoxin may not bring back heart stability or repair the weakened system even though it does save life.

The third way is to let the child have the anti-diphtheria serum, as given in the schools, and forget there is such a disease. It would soon be real enough if we let down the guard.

Vaccination we haven't much say about. It is rarely optional. It must be done because the only way to stamp out any vile disease such as small-pox is to stop it before it starts. And it would start in a hurry, as it has always done, before the vaccine and its method of application were discovered, if we trusted to luck instead of virus.

Serum Treatments Then there is the prophylaxis for scarlet fever, and for typhoid, but as a rule these are not used unless the child is exposed, or there is an epidemic.

Also Pasteur treatments, or anti-rabies serum is injected now over a period of days in almost every case of dog-bite whether the dog is known to be mad or not. Hydrophobia was common before Pasteur lived.

We could go on. My argument is that we parents will have to take these advances in life-saving on faith. We cannot possibly hope to know one ten-thousandth part of the reason why. We cannot set up our prejudice against demonstrated truths, the results of years of slow serious work that scientists have given their lives to prove. In other words I believe we have to be saved in spite of ourselves.

One thing however, I do think is our privilege and this is to have the family doctor vaccinate the child, because he knows his history and condition. Sometime, perhaps, the family doctor will give most of the preventive treatments, or at least the physician doing the work will be given a chart of the child's former illness.

Reciprocal Tariff Bill Moves Ahead

Roosevelt Opposes Liquor Tax Cut—Strikes Boot-leggers Instead

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An advance in administration re-employment plans and a resolve to oppose reduction of liquor taxes were prominent in Wednesday's capital news.

With the reciprocal tariff bill passing the committee barrier to the senate, and the stock market control measure meeting little difficulty in the house, President Roosevelt prepared soon to ask the legislators for power to initiate a home building and remodeling campaign. Government aid would be involved.

In his press conference, the president indicated that he favors an attack on illicit liquor dealers instead of lower taxes.

City Bankruptcy Bill WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Senate Tuesday passed the municipal bankruptcy bill, long sought by debt-burdened cities as a way back to solvency through compromise with their creditors.

Party lines were broken on a 45-28 vote. Thirty-three Democrats and 12 Republicans supported the bill, while 14 on each of the aisle voted against it.

The measure which passed the house in the special session now goes to conference with the house. Senate changes were made to tighten the bill to protect minority creditor groups.

The senate bill would provide that during an emergency period of two years cities and local taxing units might petition federal courts for approval of debt-composition plans that have received the endorsement of holders of 50 per cent of outstanding obligations. After favorable action by the court, acquiescence of holders of two-thirds of each class of obligations and of three-fourths of the total in the settlement proposed would render it binding on all creditors.

The bill was vigorously championed and as bitterly announced on both sides of the chamber. Proponents pointed to defaults by more than 2,000 taxing units and said the number threatened to increase without legislation. Opponents asserted the number of units in default was less than one per cent of the total, and said the measure would open the door to debt repudiation.

Representative Wilcox, Democrat, Florida, introduced the original bill in the house.

Corporate Bill Considered Immediately after disposing of the bill, the senate turned to consideration of the corporate bankruptcy measure, which would provide a somewhat similar scheme for expediting corporate reorganizations.

In the case of corporations, reorganization plans initiated by creditors or stockholders would have to be approved by holders of 75 per cent of each class of claims and 10 per cent of the total.

If the debtor was found by the court not to be insolvent but merely unable to meet its debts as they mature, filing of the petition would require the consent of holders of 10 per cent of each class of stock outstanding and five per cent of the total shares.

Debtor corporations could initiate proceedings without such consent. Reorganization plans approved by the court would not become valid until holders of two-thirds of each class of claims and a majority of each class of stock had consented.

Super-Tax Killed WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The house late Tuesday voted down the 10 per cent extra income tax proposed by the senate and accepted other changes a conference committee had worked out.

By its two votes on these proposals, it sent the $417,000,000 new revenue bill to within one step of the White House. Only senate approval of the conference change is necessary to complete congressional action. The 10 per cent extra tax which would have been added to all incomes was estimated to be capable of producing $55,000,000 a year.

It was killed by Republicans but favored by some Democrats, led by

If the debtor was found by the court not to be insolvent but merely unable to meet its debts as they mature, filing of the petition would require the consent of holders of 10 per cent of each class of stock outstanding and five per cent of the total shares.

Debtor corporations could initiate proceedings without such consent. Reorganization plans approved by the court would not become valid until holders of two-thirds of each class of claims and a majority of each class of stock had consented.

Super-Tax Killed WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The house late Tuesday voted down the 10 per cent extra income tax proposed by the senate and accepted other changes a conference committee had worked out.

By its two votes on these proposals, it sent the $417,000,000 new revenue bill to within one step of the White House. Only senate approval of the conference change is necessary to complete congressional action. The 10 per cent extra tax which would have been added to all incomes was estimated to be capable of producing $55,000,000 a year.

It was killed by Republicans but favored by some Democrats, led by

MORE THAN 50% LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE

IN THE NEW Firestone HIGH SPEED TIRE FOR 1934

The new Firestone High Speed Tire for 1934 is the greatest tire Firestone has ever built. With its wider, flatter tread, greater thickness, deeper non-skid, more and tougher rubber, and greater non-skid contact with the road, you get more than 50% longer non-skid mileage.

This new development is made possible by the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping, whereby the cotton fibers inside the high-stretch cords are soaked and coated with pure liquid rubber. This provides greater strength, safety and blowout protection.

Firestone engineers pioneered and developed the first successful balloon tire in 1923, and it is only natural that Firestone would lead in the further development of tire construction to meet the demands of the high-powered high-speed cars of today.

The new Firestone High Speed Tires for 1934, have already proved their worth by constant testing on the Firestone fleet of test cars over all kinds of roads and highways throughout the United States.

Firestone High Speed Tires are further subjected to the most severe tests known on the greatest proving ground in the world—the Indianapolis Speedway. In fact, Firestone Tires have been on the winning cars in the annual 500-Mile Indianapolis Race for fourteen consecutive years—conclusive evidence of Firestone's outstanding leadership in tire development and construction.

Drive in today and replace your thin, smooth, worn tires with a new set of the Safest—Longest Wearing—and Most Dependable Tires Firestone has ever made

Fourth Wife to Divorce Gilbert

Virginia Bruce Charges Actor-Husband Belittled Her

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—(AP)—John Gilbert, screen lover, was described as "arrogant, violent and abusive" in a divorce complaint filed here Wednesday by his fourth wife, Virginia Bruce Gilbert, formerly of the Follies.

During their entire married life—one year and eight months, the actor repeatedly belittled her intelligence and ability in the presence of friends and members of her family, she complained.

Three previous divorces had been obtained from Gilbert, terminating marriages to Olivia Burwell, Leatrice Joy and Ina Claire.

Miss Bruce, as the actor's 23-year-old wife is known on the stage, said he always insisted that she should remain home at all times, and if she attended a matinee or other afternoon entertainment, he would become abusive and violent.

On three occasions, she charged, Gilbert ordered her to leave his home and suggested she obtain a divorce in Reno.

It was reported a property settlement had been reached, providing in excess of $50,000 for the fourth wife, plus $400 a month for three years for her maintenance and $200 monthly for the maintenance of their nine-month-old daughter, Susan Ann.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER
©1934 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DONNA GABRIEL and MADELINE SIDDAI, who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are trapeze performers with Ned Traford's circus. CON DAVID, the animal trainer, is in love with Donna who regards him merely as a friend. Madeline, in love with Con, has been flirting with Ned Traford, boss circusman.

When Madeline's grandfather, AMOS SIDDAI, asks her to spend the week-end on his farm she pretends to know he is in her place. Donna is much attracted by BILL SIDDAI, Madeline's cousin.

Two weeks later Donna falls from the trapeze and is taken to a hospital, badly injured. Madeline sends word to Bill that "Madeline" is ill and leaves a letter telling Donna to continue the impersonation until she is well. Then Madeline goes on with the circus.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

A FUNERAL pall, thick and heavy, hung over the circus. The crew train, with tents and stakes and poles and apparatus, had departed by the time Con and Madeline reached the siding where the Pullmans stood, but the performers stood in little groups on the tracks or platform with no intention of retiring so early. Renfro paced the gravelled roadbed, his hands jammed in his pockets, his black brows meeting in a scowl. La Belle Matilde, his wife, sat on a heavy suitcase.

"Well, what's the verdict?" Renfro demanded when the couple approached.

Madeline told him what the doctor had said. "It will be a long time before she can work," she added. "I'm going to send her home as soon as she's able to travel."

Renfro kicked viciously at a small rock. "Your act will be lousy without her," he muttered. "Now I'll have to find a new aerial turn."

"You mean you're going to let me out?" Madeline exclaimed.

"What else can I do? You're a nice kid, but you know the rules. I don't mean right away, of course."

"But, Mr. Renfro—!" Madeline's hands were clammy. "There'll be the hospital bills—"

"I thought your folks were well-to-do? Well, never mind. We'll talk it over in the morning."

There was little time for Madeline to consider what he had said, for the others crowded about to ask about Donna. For the next 20 minutes she was busy answering their questions. Con slipped away, to stand alone on a rear platform, nursing his grief.

AN hour later, after the weary performers had gone to their staterooms, the headlights of the engine that was to carry the train to the next stand still the darkness. The creak of coupling pins, the switching from one track to another, the blast of the whistle tore through Madeline's agonized nerves like the sharp cut of a poniard. Stark terror suddenly gripped her. No one else might believe that Ned Traford had tampered with bolt or screws but she knew he had! He had tried to kill Madeline herself and failed, but he might try again with success. Cowardice prompted her to leave the circus at once, but two things were stronger; first, her absorbing love for Con David and, second, the fact that she was practically without funds. Unlike Donna, Madeline had not saved her salary.

If Donna should die—Madeline shivered! Donna's death would be a double disaster. How would Madeline convince her family that she was the real Madeline SidDAI? She must persuade Renfro to keep her on with the circus. By hook or by crook she must win Con's love. Perhaps Traford would not make another attempt at her life. Since she had cast suspicion on him he might be afraid to risk another "accident."

Madeline fell asleep and dreamed of falling through space, of being mangled by tiger claws, of being kidnapped by a red-haired giant and flung into a pit of snakes. She awoke screaming with terror, her body bathed in perspiration. Snakes!

Like most members of the theatrical profession Madeline was superstitious. She knew that Traford was her enemy, but to dream of snakes meant more than one enemy! She was surrounded by them! Suppose Donna were one? Suppose Donna should hold this accident against her, would refuse to work with Madeline again, to help her, either financially or in other ways?

Burying her face in her pillow, she sobbed in a frenzy of self pity.

IN the first car the group of strange people discussed the accident that night and others they had seen. Major Dan Thumby, his shrill, childish voice high-pitched though muted, told of a slack wire which expression in their golden brown depths the little nurse murmured an inaudible prayer of thanksgiving.

Donna's gaze took in the white walls, the carpetless floor, the wide casement window with white starched curtains; the shining enameled table beside her bed. Then she tried to move and found her body encased in steel—steel that burned like a torturing fire but held her rigid. Even her hands refused to obey the commands of her brain.

THERE was a queer, muffled roaring in her head, an intolerable ache as though something alive were imprisoned within her skull and seeking release. Her lips were cracked and swollen, her eyelids like lead. She tried to speak to ask where she was, but only a hoarse murmur came from her throat.

Miss Saunders crossed the room and leaned over her. "Yes, honey? What is it?"

The eyes plead for information.

"You're in Dr. Cotton's sanatorium, honey. You were hurt, you know. You fell from the trapeze. But we're going to take good care of you and have you on your feet again in no time."

The white eyelids fluttered downward. Suddenly Donna was overcome by panic as she remembered that something had gone wrong. Her grasp had slipped; then the horrible sensation of falling—"My—my back?" dry lips framed the words.

"Bless your heart, there's nothing the matter with your back!"

"Madeline!"

The nurse bit her lips. "Yes, I know. Your sister told us. We've written your folks."

The statement made no impression upon Donna. Already her sick brain was hobbled again. Her injured body was sending messages of torment to her nerve centers. She stifled a groan and Miss Saunders, fearful that she had said too much, hastened to give the patient a quieting injection, according to Dr. Cotton's orders.

A bee buzzed drowsily against the screened window. On the floor below an expectant mother cried aloud in her travail. But Donna heard neither. Her spirit floated in a world of space in which pain, pleasure and her surroundings were unimportant.

The day wore on. At times she roused from her lethargy and became conscious of the splints and bandages, of unutterable weakness and agonizing pain. Then she sank back into blissful unconsciousness. Several times during the long, hot day Dr. Cotton dropped in to see Donna and privately gave thanks that his little daughter need not follow so perilous a profession.

At midnight a telegram arrived. It was addressed to the doctor and signed "William SidDAI." The message read, "Leaving tonight."

When Donna murmured, "Bill!" she was assured that he would be with her the next day. Miss Saunders could understand Donna's repeated calling of Bill's name but she could not understand the repetition, "Madeline! Madeline!" (To Be Continued) workers and plant managers. Wednesday's session was the third time in as many days that the general motors officials and employees' representatives have conferred regarding their difference. When the secret session ended, newsmen found William S. Knudson, executive vice president of Chevrolet, and Charles T. Fisher, vice president of Fisher Body Corporation, chatting with union spokesmen from eight cities.

Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the National Automobile Labor Board, said:

"A third conference was held Wednesday afternoon. Satisfactory progress was made. The next stage of negotiations will take place at the individual plants."

Damp and Chilly Summer Is Likely

Chief of Weather Bureau Blames It on Clouds of Cosmic Dust

NEW YORK—Stupendous clouds of cosmic dust through which our universe is drifting probably are the cause of the abnormally cold spring and icy winter, and portend a cold summer, Dr. James H. Seagr, chief of the United States Weather Bureau here, said Monday.

"Our universe is probably drifting through these great clouds of cosmic particles," Dr. Seagr said. "I think it is. And the effect is to make weather colder. We may even be moving toward another Ice Age."

"What is more likely is that we are drifting through the center of smaller clouds of cosmic dust, and these diminish the heat of the sun's rays that reach our earth."

For what he characterized as "short range work," he said:

"It is always better to expect what is to continue. If it's cold it will continue to be cold. But always remember that every year with rain brings us one year nearer a dry year."

"Can you positively predict a cold summer this year?" he was asked.

"No," he said. "I can predict the probability, but as for saying it will positively be so—well, flip a nickel for the answer."

"Until this year, we had in succession six of the warmest winters on record, one right after another; now we seem to have emerged from that phase and have drifted into something new."

been known to take five years to settle, and to diminish sharply the temperatures over a whole hemisphere, the forecaster pointed out.

"How much greater the effect, then," he said, "when the entire universe meet just our solar system—moves into gigantic clouds of cosmic particles."

"The astronomers and the physicists believe they've found the limits of the universe now. Beyond that there's nothing. And it's into that nothingness that the millions of solar systems are drifting at a rate beyond human compassing."

4th Appeal Lost by Luke Lea, Son

U. S. Supreme Court Refuses to Review Off-Heard Case

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Col. Luke Lea, former United States senator from Tennessee, and his son, Luke Lea Jr., Monday lost in the United States Supreme Court their fight to prevent their extradition to North Carolina to serve prison sentences. They are now at liberty in Tennessee under bond.

The supreme court declined in proceedings brought to prevent extradition to pass on the validity of their trial and conviction on charges arising out of the failure of the Central Bank & Trust Co., a $17,000,000 concern in Asheville, N. C.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep...Vigor...Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes of filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. They should pour out thru the bladder 3 pints of fluid a day which contains 4 pounds of waste matter.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging headache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, numbness, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS. A doctor's prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS... the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

In fighting extradition, the Leas contended their trial was invalid because they were not in North Carolina at the time the acts charged against them were alleged to have been committed. The Tennessee Supreme Court in holding them for extradition, ruled it was too late for them to contend that their trial and conviction deprived them of constitutional rights. North Carolina contended that the proper time to have tested the validity of indictment against them would have been to oppose extradition at the time of the trial. It said that by coming to North Carolina to answer the indictment, they had waived all rights to attack jurisdiction of the North Carolina court.

It was the fourth time that the Supreme Court has refused to consider the case on its merits. Three previously the Leas sought a writ on various issues raised before Carolina demanded extradition.

Nervous, Weak, Dizz

Mrs. J. T. Cox of Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "I have been very nervous, weak, and dizzy for some time. After taking Dr. Pierce's Kidney & Bladder Pills, I am feeling much better. I am now able to do my work and am much stronger. I am now able to do my work and am much stronger. I am now able to do my work and am much stronger."

STARTENA DOES THE JOB!

ACTUAL RECORDS last year on 925,427 chicks fed STARTENA, show that 93 per cent of them lived. At six weeks of age, the light breeds averaged 17.4 ounces per chick; the heavy breeds 19.2 ounces per chick. No wonder there's a big swing to PURINA STARTENA this year. Feed it and get the kind of chicks you want at six weeks. It only takes two pounds per chick to do the job.

OKLAHOMA CITY.—(AP)—Death makes its grip upon the human brain permanent after two minutes, Dr. Charles Mayo, famous Rochester surgeon, said in an interview here Tuesday in commenting upon dog resuscitation experiments in California.

Heflin Still Has an Outside Chance

But Is 637 Behind Run-Off Chance With 5 Boxes Out

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(AP)—Former Senator J. Thomas Heflin, apparently out of the running earlier, had an outside chance Wednesday night on official figures to enter the run-off and make a new attempt for a "political comeback," on returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary which placed former Governor Bibb Graves in a run-off against Frank Dixon, Birmingham lawyer.

An unusually heavy vote in Chambers county sent the former senator back into the running, but still in third place with five boxes in the district missing, but only 637 votes behind Maj. Joe Starnes of Guntersville, runner-up.

The vote with five boxes missing, was Miles B. Allgood, incumbent, 13,205; Starnes 11,035 and Heflin 10,398.
